

Moccasin Slough Structure Narrative and Map

The Golf Course Structure is typically closed during the dry season from November through May while the Tsala Apopka structures are in conservation mode. During this time, flow between the Floral City and Inverness Pools would not occur because the lakes are normally higher than the Withlacoochee River and lake levels are typically declining due to lack of rainfall. As a result, a secondary or bypass channel around the Golf Course structure would not be necessary during construction. If the unexpected need arises to move water between the Floral City and Inverness Pools while the Golf Course structure is temporarily closed, the Moccasin Slough structure is available to pass flow between these pools.
